Ol' Charles (Dead-Eye)
McCloskey Proves
Great Leader

Led by Ol' Charles (Dead-Eye) McCloskey, as slick a hand with the ball, mallet, as has ever skipped over the local court, these Quaker high school basketballers squelched Alliance five last night by the score of 36 to 16.

Tonight the local warriors will play at Scenecville and the chances are they'll have a tougher session than they did last night.

The victory was the 13th triumph for the Salem lads, and the seventh in the string of unbroken wins on the home hardwood.

It was also redemption. Those Alliance boys a few weeks ago seemed to be tottering along on their last legs, poor fellows, when they up and smote the free-wheeling Quakers a resounding thump in a game played at Alliance.

It is suspected now that there might have been a little overconfidence on the part of the Alliance on that occasion but the jury may believe the testimony without doubt whatever when it is said there was no overconfidence last night.

Aviators Are Just Mice
Just like an old mallet table-pounce on a hapless little mouse in a corner, tossing him in the air a few times, worrying him, pawing him and cuffing him around—so these Quakers maltreated the visitors from Stark county last night.

From the first few minutes until the last, it must have been a nightmare for the visitors from the west, one of those nightmares that seems never coming to an end. Three lonely baskets—that mallets, represents the Alliance scoring from scrimmage. Everything else was free. And two of those buckets were sunk in the last few minutes of the performance when so many substitute players were running in and out that the Aviators may have plopped them in when the lads were looking.

For three quarters the action was fast, furious, rough and, withal, one-sided so far as the scoring's concerned. Though the Aviators had one lone field goal until the last few minutes, they had plenty of chances. The fact, however, that the Quaker defense men were hurrying those shots made a lot to do with their failure to score. It was seldom that an Alliance man ever "got set" any place in the vicinity of the foul line. If he intended to shoot, he had to let go of it or pass it.

Zelle and Mullins at the forwards, Palmer at center, Ol' Dead Eye McCloskey and Beck at the guards—that was the Quaker starting lineup. It would not seem quite right to pick out individual heroes among those lads last night, but the fact remains that Jackie Mullins worked

Opera Stars Among Highest Paid in Radio

Opera singers are among the highest paid of radio performers. Lily Pons and Lawrence Tibbett top the salary list. Each receives $4,000 for each program. The six stars shown above with their radio salaries are members of the Metropolitan Opera company which once opposed radio appearances of its singers, but has since withdrawn such opposition.

Couple To Observe 54th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried Brudery, aged 80 and 76, respectively, will celebrate their 54th wedding anniversary Monday, keeping open house all day Sunday and Monday, at their home near Beloit.

Mr. and Mrs. Brudery have nine children: Fred, of Washingtonville; Mrs. Mary Meier, Georgetown rd.; Edward, Georgetown rd.; William, of Beloit; Mrs. Bertha Kampher, of Beloit; Frank and Ernest, of Salem; Mrs. Clara Dickinson, of Cleveland, and John, at home. They have also 25 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mary Zumbrennen and Gottfried Brudery were married at Zweilmen, Switzerland, on Feb. 18, 1881.

In 1882 they came to this country and located first in Alliance. They have lived near Beloit for 26 years. Mr. Brudery is a painter by vocation. Mr. and Mrs. Brudery are members of the First Reformed church at Alliance.

Many friends are expected at the home tomorrow and Monday.

DISMISS FORCE
AT COURTHOUSE

Skilled Workers Gone;
Lisbon Sewer Job
To Suspend

LISBON, Feb. 16.—Skilled workers who have been employed about the courthouse here, which is a PWA project, were dismissed from service Friday afternoon, with a few minor exceptions. Those employed on the courthouse project by the "works division" will be suspended indefinitely Tuesday afternoon. A few laborers may be retained to clean No. 1 court room and arrange it for occupancy Monday, Feb. 25.

The Lisbon sewer project will be closed indefinitely Sunday afternoon, as funds for this work will be exhausted at that time.

Painters have removed varnish from the mahogany chairs used in the jury box in No. 1 court room and this equipment is now being given a coat of green enamel. All panel work in No. 1 court room shows a walnut finish.

Top floor was laid in the hallway between No. 1 court room and the jury room for this court today.

Steel filing equipment and desks will be assembled in the clerk of courts office next week, which indicates that the office of the sheriff and clerk of courts, and also that of Judge W. F. Lones will be ready for occupancy Monday, Feb. 25.

"Biggs, who told me that he is unemployed, said he thought the idea is terrible," Burger said, "and Cravatt just told me that he wasn't interested and turned away."

Cravatt is understood to have held out until the final ballot for life sentence rather than the death penalty for Hauptmann.

Washingtonville
Approves Tax Rate

WASHINGTONVILLE, Feb. 16.—The village council met in special session on Friday evening, when a resolution was passed to accept the amounts and rates as determined by the budget commission and authorizing the necessary tax levies, which will be certified to the county auditor.

The new tax rate for the village of Washingtonville in Columbiana county is $17 on $1,000. The former rate was $19.40.

Wins Oratory Meet

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 16.—Edward McCright of Wooster college won the annual Ohio intercollegiate oratory contest here last night with his address on "through the Eyes of Youth." Charles L. Moore of Muskingum university was second place. The prizes were $25 and $10 and McCright won the opportunity to represent Ohio in the intercollegiate oratory contest at Northwestern university April 25.

Takes Look at Sunshine
Before Entering Red
Brick Death House

(By Associated Press)
TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 16.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, condemned to die for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, arrived at the New Jersey state prison today at 10:31 after a slow trip from the Hunterdon county jail over slippery roads.

The 24-mile trip from Flemington was made in 55 minutes. Hauptmann, flanked by Warden Harry McCrea and Lieut. Allan of the state police, was led into the main entrance of the prison. The big door closed behind him at 10:32.

"I Am Innocent"
"I am innocent," Hauptmann said as he walked up the steps of the prison. This was in reply to a request for a "last word."

The state police escort evaded the mob of 500 persons who were gathered at one end of the prison by going around the opposite end.

The prisoner was in the second car of the police motorcade.

Warden McCrea said that Hauptmann spoke very little on the trip from Flemington. He thanked the warden for the treatment he had been accorded in the Flemington jail.

"Everything's fine," he said.

Prisoner 17,400

In the prison, Hauptmann was taken to a side room, where the commitment papers were given to Irving Bleam, prison clerk. Hauptmann was immediately labelled as prisoner 17,400.

He posed for photographers, still managed to ward off McCrea and Lieut. Smith. Then someone placed a microphone in front of him. There was still no expression on his face as he spoke into it. He leaned forward and in a clear voice said again "I'm innocent."

Hauptmann was in Bleam's office only a few minutes before he was led away to the death house. Down the main corridor he walked between his guards, out into a small yard where he saw sunshine again—perhaps for the last time—and then into the little red brick death house.

Columbiana Opens
Home Headquarters

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 16.—Headquarters were opened today for the Better Housing campaign in Columbiana in the building on the public square formerly occupied by Dr. L. H. Nelson.

A canvass of Columbiana and vicinity will be made starting Monday by workers paid by the Federal government, and citizens will be asked to get needy repairs made, as funds are available through local financial institutions.

The public is invited also to visit the headquarters, where information will be available to those wishing to make home or farm building improvements. F. E. Griffin is the local chairman and his committee members are as follows: C. H. Shontz, Chamber of Commerce; Mark Klugensmith, Financial Institutions; W. B. Treadwell, American Legion; Russell Stahl, Builders' Supplies; Ray J. Miller, Kiwanis club; Isaiah Mowen, Rotary club; C. W. Griswold, publicist.

Describes 4-H Club
Program In Chicago

Miss Wanda Zimmerman spoke to the members of the 4-H club at the meeting last night, on her trip to the 4-H club convention held in Chicago recently.

Other features of the program were: Roll call response, something each member would like on the program this year; song by the ladies of the grange; talk by F. L. Vincent, the master, on the subject, "Can a man buy and operate a farm now as easily as he could twenty years ago?"; talk by Mrs. Wilson Carter; stunts by the boys and girls; closing song by the men of the grange.

The grange will convene in two weeks, on March 1.

Loses Blue Eagle

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 16.—Miss Mary E. Woods, NRA compliance officer, announced the removal of the blue eagle from the Mirand pharmacy in Lancaster. The Young hotel in Lancaster, Jake Feldman's barber shop, Cincinnati, and Joe Vargo's barber shop in Cleveland.

Court Wrangle Looms In Toronto's $500,000 Stork Derby

(By Associated Press)
TORONTO, Feb. 16.—An amazing number of babies in Toronto homes may become involved in a bewildering and possibly humorous court wrangle 20 months hence when the will of Charles Vance Millar, who sought to mock death by encouraging life, is executed.

The individualistic millionaire lawyer and sportsman bequeathed $500,000 to the Toronto mother who gives birth to the largest number of children during the 10 years following his death, which occurred in October, 1926.

One Clause Cited
The legal angle will revolve around this clause in his will: "And at the expiration of 10 years from my death, to give it ($500,000) and its accumulations to the mother who has since my death given birth in Toronto to the greatest number of children as shown by registration under the vital statistics act. If one or more mothers will have equal highest number of registrations under said act, to divide said moneys and accumulations between them."

Already a certain amount of rivalry has developed between two of the leading figures in the stork sweepstakes.

Mrs. Matthew Kenny, who has given birth to 11 children since 1926, not long ago met Mrs. Grace Bagnato, who has had nine in the same period, and Mrs. B. told Mrs. K. she

"I Have Nothing To Confess!"

"I have nothing to confess," says Bruno Richard Hauptmann, sentenced to die in the electric chair on a charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby. "If I have to go to the electric chair, I will go like a man." But Hauptmann plans a battle to escape the chair, although he has little hope in an appeal. The above photo was taken in Hunterdon county jail.

Those Are Mighty
Nice Words, Chief

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16.—Ohio's weather chief, William H. Alexander, today said "Spring's here and here to stay."

"Of course, that's just my personal opinion," the genial forecaster said. "But what do I base it on? Why, the birds are singing, the grass is getting green, and I have the feeling."

Examining his charts of data on weather, Alexander pointed out that Columbus temperatures were 22 degrees above normal and that temperatures ranged from 15 to 25 degrees above normal throughout the Ohio valley.

"The next few days will be a little cooler than today," he said, "but I don't believe we'll have any more severe winter weather this year."

Dog Owners to Get
License Notices

LISBON, Feb. 16.—Notice will be sent by March 1 to approximately 1,200 owners of dogs who purchased license tags for 1934 and who have failed to purchase licenses for 1935. It was announced today at the tax office here.

So far 4,902 owners have obtained licenses. During 1934, the record shows 5,611 licenses issued. A penalty of $1 is to be charged for a license for a male dog, making the license cost $2 while a license for a female dog will eventually cost $4, which includes the penalty of $1. In 1933 there was a sale of 4,081 dog licenses in this county.

Receives Game Laws

LISBON, Feb. 16.—Clerk of Courts T. Vaughn Yates has received copies of the digest of fishing laws and orders of the conservation council for the 1935 season. It was announced here today, and a copy of the revised laws and orders will be issued with each license issued. A copy of the revised laws and orders can be obtained by those interested upon application to the Conservation Council at Columbus.

Masons Planning
Washington Party
At Temple Feb. 22

One of the outstanding social events of the winter season is promised by Masons and the Eastern Star for their Washington birthday party and dance to be held at the Masonic temple Friday evening, Feb. 22.

In the ballroom, from 9 to 12, the members and their guests will dance to the strains of "The Blue Danube" waltz and other popular and modern dance numbers, provided by Jack Bernhart's International Entertainers, featuring Miss Ellen Evans, blues singer; "Noack" Oswalt, and the singing trio.

From 8 to 9 a playlet, "Larch Keys for Ladies," will be presented by the Loyal Women's class of the Christian church, directed by Miss Phila Fields. Cards and games will be featured in the club rooms.

This party is one of a series arranged for the winter season by the associated Masonic bodies.

EUROPE'S PEACE DRIVE IS AIMED FOR PROSPERITY

Anglo-French-Italian Accords Planned to Restore Confidence

GERMANY MAY ACT
AS SHE CHOOSES

If She Stays Aloof, Other Nations Will See
Peace Is Kept

By HAROLD F. BRAMAN
(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Restoration of confidence—by peaceful or forceful methods—in order to restore prosperity, was revealed today as the single purpose of the Anglo-French-Italian accords.

Now the focus of European diplomacy, the accords originally conceived by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon. They had one single all-important purpose, for planning these pacts—to bring about a revival of economic prosperity, in order to make Great Britain's traditional position in world affairs secure once more, by a restoration of confidence on the continent.

Up To Germany

If Germany enters the scheme in a co-operative manner, the confidence-restoring plan will take the peaceful road. If Germany chooses to keep aloof, Britain, France and Italy will form a powerful combination of armed forces to assure peace until normal trade makes the policeman's club unnecessary.

This is the authoritative explanation of the new European security system now being pushed in the many capitals of Europe.

It was revealed Dec. 29 that such a system of pacts was contemplated. They were just an idea then; now the full story has been uncovered.

Late in 1932 MacDonald first conceived the five-power declaration which was eventually adopted, granting to Germany a sort of equality in principle. This declaration was ambiguously interpreted in various capitals and so never became the effective instrument of peace that MacDonald hoped it would be.

Since then he and Simon have striven for something which would have power in it, something which would bring about confidence.

It Was Something
She Ate—Just 224
Things, to Be Exact

NYACK, N. Y., Feb. 16.—It was something Mrs. Paul Pappas ate that caused her trouble—to be exact, 224 things, including a meat skewer.

Several days ago, Mrs. Pappas, 40, of Brooklyn, under treatment at Rockland state hospital at Orangeburg, N. Y., near here, complained of pain in her stomach. Physicians noted an abnormal swelling and Dr. George A. Leitner operated.

Dr. Leitner reported he removed 224 separate foreign articles—nails, teaspoons, straight and safety pins, links of automobile tire chains, rubber bands, fragments of bed-springs, broken glass and a meat skewer.

He said Mrs. Pappas, a mental case, probably had been swallowing this miscellany for the last two or three years.

Goshen Juveniles
Present Program

Goshen Juvenile grange met last night and presented the following program: Recitations by Tommy and Janet Sangree, "My Valentine" and "Lazy Bones," respectively; jokes by Edith Starbuck; a story by Mrs. Bates; song by the grange; recitation by Priscilla Beery; recitation, "I'd Like To Be President"; Austin Rhodes; closing song by the grange.

Mr. Heintzleman talked to the members concerning their gardens this year.

Matron Mrs. Fieldhouse and the assistant matron, Mrs. Bates, conducted a Valentine party after the meeting.

Good Luck, Wiley

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 16.—Wiley Post is leaving here any morning now, on the most hazardous yet the most beneficial to aviation of any since Lindbergh.

He is pioneering a new world, flying a long course at 35,000 feet, was never attempted; eight hours on oxygen is new. He drops his landing gear on leaving; he has to come in on (pardon the expression, but it's all he has to land on) his "belly."

His propeller spins lower down than the bottom of the plane. He has to stop it and get it exactly crossways before landing or it will hit first and turn him a somersault.

It's a real scientific flight; if it works everybody will fly up there. It's an old style ship, five years old. He has flown it around the world twice. So a prayer, or at least a good wish for Wiley. Yours,

Will Rogers

GOV. DAVEY'S POLICY

Gov. Davey has made it plain by word and action that he intends to be a partisan governor. Like Postmaster General Farley, Gov. Davey makes no excuses for politics. If parties weren't entitled to rewards, they wouldn't strive for victory. Then what would happen to the two party system?

There is much to be said for the unequivocal position Gov. Davey has taken. He has not promised a non-partisan administration, and he will not try to give one during the next two years. Undoubtedly he hopes to be elected for a second term. A strong Democratic party under his direction is the best assurance he could have.

Unfortunately, there is another side to Gov. Davey's frank partnership. W. F. Amrine, superintendent of the London prison farm, has resigned and his resignation has been accepted because Mr. Amrine refused to disclose political affiliations of his employees. "No man is indispensable," is Gov. Davey's comment on the Amrine resignation.

Warden Preston E. Thomas, head of the state penitentiary for 22 years and now under suspension on Gov. Davey's order, apparently is going to be deprived of his civil service rights by another arbitrary decision from Gov. Davey. An order has been given taking the position of warden from the civil service classification, thus making certain that Warden Thomas can be ousted regardless of the civil service commission's decision.

These acts probably are fair samples of the cold realities of forthright partisanship. The country has seen dozens of cases no better or worse in Washington, Ohio, with a new governor who admits he intends to follow the Farley style, is going to have a chance to see partisanship at close range in Columbus. The picture will be no prettier now than it was in the days when civil service laws were born out of repulsion for the spoils system.

UPSHOT

Heavy firing between the Roosevelt administration and the American Federation of Labor has ceased.
The federation's executive council has conferred with President Roosevelt, and he has published a statement expressing admiration and gratitude for organized labor and its leaders. On their part, they insisted, even in the midst of excitement over renewal of the automobile code, that they had no unkind thoughts about Mr. Roosevelt. It was his misfortune, they pointed out, to have certain advisers who were trying to knife him in the back by alienating organized labor.

These are some of the externalities of the situation.
They represent the stiff and often insincere courtesy of diplomacy. In this case they certainly do not represent accurately the upshot of organized labor's objection to extension of the automobile code and Mr.
Roosevelt's reasons for extending the code over labor's objection. The new deal's friendship with the American Federation of Labor has been transferred to a new basis.

The national industrial recovery act does not give the federation sole rights to the organization of labor.
It does not commit the administration to support of the federation in its attempts to organize labor. Mr.
Roosevelt is not heading a labor government, as opposed to a government dedicated to all interests. Labor does not have to support the American Federation of Labor to receive benefits. All these things, which have been held true at one time or another in the last year and a half, have been proved wholly or partly false as a result of the clash of opinion between the administration and the American Federation of Labor.

The air has been cleared, partially. The Roosevelt administration, apparently fearful lest a private organization embarrass a national program, has put the organization into its place. Inevitably, feelings were hurt and tempers heated. The result, however, promises to be beneficial, from the standpoint of the general welfare. Labor has lost none of its rights. A labor organization has had its rights defined.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, February 17.

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of activity, especially in the conventional Sabbath engagements, mystical, occult, metaphysical, literary and charitable as well as ecclesiastical engagements. Yet there is a certain menace to these in the use of bad judgment, speculation, want of honor and integrity, also ill health. Extravagance and indulgence also hamper some good prospects possibly through change.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively year, with much opportunity for progress and prosperity. If the affairs be handled with conservatism, restraint and good judgment. But there are tendencies to speculation, gambling, rash moves, extravagances and personal indulgences. Literary matters and removals or journeys may turn things into profitable grooves.

A child born on this day should have excellent talents and versatility, possibly in writing, may be ambitious and venturesome, inclining to extravagance, personal indulgences and taking long chances with funds.

For Monday, February 18.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of great events and abrupt occurrences, judging by the important place of powerful planets with relation to the moon, the time clock of the heavens. A sudden precipitation of quite unforeseen matters may produce revolutionary changes, with far-reaching effect on the future life and its interests. Yet there may arise stubborn obstacles, with delays and impediments, with other rebuffs and reversals. Beware deceit and misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the abrupt offering of an opportunity which may radically influence the whole future life and destiny.
But simultaneously with this arise obstructions, impediments, delays and disappointments to be decidedly and definitely vanquished. Be alert to deceit and slander or misrepresentations, especially with writings and in employment.

A child born on this day may have outstanding and original talents, amounting to genius, by which it may rise to great heights despite many impediments and frustrations.

Notable nativity: Adolphe Menjou, screen actor.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—It is 4 o'clock of a droopy afternoon and a column that should have been finished hours ago is no further along than this. These intervals of mental string-halt flash out of nowhere with the numbing force of lightning. Zip—and there's a complete blank.

Yet somehow every columnist manages to limp in ahead of the deadline. But what is left of the day is a forlorn fragment. He is shipwrecked on a tatter of time. And there's the long night ahead to stare into while wondering if the seizure is temporary or permanent.

The nightmare that clouds the horizon of every writer is that eternal horror: Am I written out? In the grip of such a dolor, he fattens his self pity with the most pathetic of fancies. He will pack the portmanteau and away, leaving perhaps a wistful little note: "I can't go on!"

But morning paints the invariable rainbow. And he is likely tearing into his column and battling it out before noon. Somewhere there is analogy between such individual despair and the mass gloom of a troubled world. One morning we awaken and it is gone.

Many of us are solaced in such paucity by a story told about Eugene Field. He had come to a full stop with his column in the Chicago days and was floored. Finally in that cut-glass handwriting he sent this note to the managing editor: "I give up.
There'll be no column tomorrow." As he was slipping into his coat for Jake's around the corner a reply came: "There's a printer down stairs whose three children are dangerously ill with scarlet fever. He's not giving up." Field removed his coat and knocked out one of the best columns of his career.

The most exquisite writings flower from the depths.
Heywood Brown has not written a more graceful essay than the one that followed within a few hours the passing of his former wife, Ruth Hale. The finest editorial I recall was William Allen White's broken-hearted farewell to his beautiful daughter tragically killed by a fall from a horse. The greatest works of Daudet, Proust, Heine and Meredith were ground out in the agony of pain and misery.

Writers and their art are remindful there are no literary salons anymore. The Richard Watson Gilders back-in-the-yard chalet was once a cozy refuge and still later the Oliver Herfords Sunday afternoons auraured a long remembered charm. Everybody who was anybody came early and staid late. It was where Clasie Loftus first regaled with her now famous impromptu mineries. The still later Algonquin Round Table is no more. Nearest to the salon is Louis Bromfield's room in that hotel. The glossiest of the sophisticates have been gathering there. But Bromfield is soon returning to France.

Not many writers stand at the head of the class in punctuation. I have a dash box breaking out in a rash now and then that scatters one here, one there and two for Sister Susie. In reaching an impossible passage there's nothing quite like the good old dash.
It bridges much ignorance. A writer perhaps has punctuation so little because he can always blame the proof-reader. It is his job. And he's welcome to it, with love, kisses and a couple of semi-colons.

An entertainment has been arranged by the Queen Esther society for Thursday evening at the Methodist church. The proceeds of the event will go for home missions.

Fire, supposed to have been caused by a defective flue, destroyed the residence of Joseph Yeager, Jr., at Clarksville, near Greenford, Sunday afternoon.

George Washington

Thousands will honor George Washington on the 203rd anniversary of his birthday, Friday, Feb.
22. Memorial rites will be held at Mt. Vernon, the Washington estate on the Potomac, and other historical spots. Stuart's famous portrait of Martha Washington and the less familiar painting of Washington by Peale are shown above. Sulgrave Manor was the ancestral home of Washington's family in England before it moved to the Colonies.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

New Method of Treating Warts

It is interesting to read of the many strange measures used by our forefathers in attempting to cure certain diseases. They had fantastic notions about the nature of disease and the things that might influence it.

Dr. Copeland

For centuries many believed warts decreased in size with the waning of the moon. Swinging a black cat by the tail in the moonlight was recommended as a sure cure for warts! To this day many weird and irrational forms of superstition are practiced in attempting to effect the cure of this simple affection of the skin.

A wart is a tumor or growth of the skin, medically called "verruca vulgaris". The scientific name is bigger than the wart!

Caused by a Germ Though the actual cause has never been confirmed it is believed to be due to a tiny germ. This germ is so small it cannot be seen under a microscope. The term "filterable virus" has been applied to organisms of this sort.

Warts are more common in children than adults. They are seldom painful. If the growth is located in the region of a nerve there may be some pain, or if located in an area where there is continuous rubbing and friction, it may become inflamed and painful.

Where there are numerous warts on the back of a child's hands, they usually disappear without treatment. In the adult, there is likely to be a single wart which is decidedly persistent.

There are various ways of removing a growth like this. The most common method is by the application of a strong acid, such as "monochloroacetic acid". Extreme care must be exercised in the application of this substance because carelessness may cause a severe skin burn. A good plan is to place vaseline around the wart before applying the acid. The grease covers the skin and protects it from the acid.

The Injection Method

Warts may also be removed by the electric cautery or by surgical excision. Large, unsightly warts are best treated in this fashion. Of course, this method is not advisable for the young child who may squirm about and make it difficult.
Recently a new method of treatment has been introduced for the removal of warts in children and adults. I refer to the injections of Bismuth. These injections are administered one week apart. The substance is given hypodermically into the buttocks. This method is less tedious and less painful than some of the other methods used for cure of warts. Of course, it could only be undertaken by your physician and he will decide whether it is worth trying.

As a matter of fact you should never treat any tumor or swelling of the skin without first consulting a physician. Bear in mind that warts may easily be confused with moles and other skin disfigurements. The treatment differs accordingly and it is important first actually to determine the nature of the growth.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXIV

"Well, if I must say it, I'd rather not dance in public, but I find it necessary to eat. And besides, I don't believe that a dancing costume argues any immodeesty."

"How do you figure that out?"

"Simply enough. If my dancing is at all successful, my audience is interested in the rhythm, the posture, and the story of my dance—they're watching the dance, not me. If they aren't, the dance is a failure."

"Good arguments," conceded Mark, "but do you believe that bunch of hard-tack sailors from the Ellice was watching the rhythm, the beauty, and all that, of your dance?"

"I do," said Vanya defiantly. "Didn't they applaud?"

"Yes, and you'd have earned still more applause if you'd take off the rest of your clothes."

"They applauded the dance!"

"They applauded your legs, which are worth it, and the rest of your figure, which is equally worth it."

"Mark," said Vanya, stopping and facing him, "do you have to find these subtle and devilish means of tormenting me? I love dancing; it's the one bright spot in this dismal livelihood I earn. Do you have to spoil it for me?"

"I'm sorry," apologized Mark, "I really contrite. I was only Loring's sentiments."

"Loring!" exclaimed Vanya. "I'd prefer him not to discuss me! There's no one in Tonga who'd give you a more proper education."

"And yet," observed Mark, "his opinion of you is rather higher than you seem to believe. He has said many things I'd interpret as compliments."

"I don't want his compliments," "Do you know," asked Mark, "that you're very pretty when you flare up like that?"

"Is that the reason you persist in those hateful attempts to anger me?"

"I wonder," he replied. "You haven't flared wholeheartedly for a week at least. You've changed of late—very suddenly. You've been meek, miserable, down-trodden, and obviously unhappy, since—since—"

"Since when?" queried Vanya.

"Since the night I burst into your room and kissed you by force," he answered.

Vanya turned quickly away, gazing with averted face at the wall of jungle that grew quite close to the beach. She took a few steps along the sand.

"Let's walk," she said.

Mark followed her. She looked, he thought, adorable in the white breeched outfit, her jet black hair curled in wisps under the brim of her sun-helmet, seeming even blacker than usual in the brilliant material daylight.

"Despite Loring," he said as he swung beside her, "you'd have an easy career on the American stage. You're beautiful."

"I thought you said Loring complimented me," Vanya said flushing.

"It was a compliment. He said your features were too fine, too small and delicate, to appear to advantage across the footlights."

"And you think they're coarse enough to get across?"

"Not at all! But I do think you're more than beautiful enough for the Follies or the Scandals."

"The follies or the scandals?"

The girl stared at him amazed. "Are those things honored in America? One always hears the strangest things about American customs but follies and scandals—"

"No," laughed Mark. "Not the follies and scandals you mean! You wouldn't know, of course, that those are the names of two of the famous musical revues. Their choruses happen to be famous for beauty, so it is quite an honor—my opinion."

"Oh!" said Vanya, walking steadily.

"Good Lord!" said Mark. "Don't you like to be told you're beautiful? Hasn't anybody ever made that remark to you?"

"Yes," she said soberly, "but neither the men nor their subsequent remarks have left a very pleasant impression. That's always the opening gun in a hateful campaign."

"For little Vanya! He had been cruel enough to her, but now somehow his attitude was softening. He was doubting his own grim New England morals."

"Tropic decay," he thought. "At least, that's what Loring's confounded cleverness would say. Iron and fire—cold hard iron softens in heat. And Vanya—am I just a means of escape to her? Or does she really care for me?"

"They passed a long coral outcropping. Mark drew the girl over to it. They sat side by side on the limy rock. Mark slipped his arms about Vanya's waist and drew her to him; she yielded willingly."

"Vanya," he said, looking down at her, "May I kiss you?"

She looked at him in surprise. "Why do you ask—now?"

"I want you to say whether or not you want me to."

"Of course, you may."

"But say you want me to."

"I do—now!"

Mark pressed a kiss on the full red lips; he was surprised by the tenderness of his own caress, and the eagerness of her response.

"Do you love me, Vanya?"

"I don't know—I don't truly!"

He kissed her again, a fiercer, more passionate caress. She clung to him gasping.

"That means you love me, Vanya! It does, doesn't it?"

"I think so! Yes! Oh, yes!"

She tore herself suddenly away, sprang up.

"This is foolhardy, Mark! I want to walk."

It was full darkness when they returned to the Cove. Vanya went to her room, and Mark, after a meal of Hong's beans, to his to a mingled medley of thoughts.

He was happy, yet puzzled. Vanya was beautiful, and she loved him. Need anything else matter?

In his hard Yankee soul, he knew it did. Vanya, an honorable, marriageable Vanya, did not exist for him and his stern morality. Life had destroyed that Vanya, if she had existed, and he could not in honor bring her into the home of his sister and mother. His thoughts lost their happiness, only when the off-season rain became a thundering torrent that shook the roof did he hear it.

Then he realized that some one had been rapping at his door for some time. He opened it to find Vanya there!

"Flame and Water"

"What's the matter?" demanded Mark, startled by the girl's appearance. "Has someone again—?"

"No," said Vanya with a faint smile. "It's just the rain—I couldn't sleep."

"So that's all," said Mark, relieved. "Come in."

"These downpours!" said his visitor, slipping diffidently into the room. "They sound as if they'd wash the house away."

"Be seated," said Mark with a mock-courtesy gesture. "The chair or the bed—or the bed or the chair?"

Vanya chose the bed, drawing her knees under her chin and leaning against the frame, so that her feet, clad in the diminutive moccasins, peeped from the hem of the flowered robe. The rain pattered down with a staccato roar like a gasoline engine.

"The rainy season is unpleasant for several reasons," she volunteered. "The rains are bad enough, but the ships are in, and I work every night. That's when Shene makes his year's profit."

"You poor kid! This is a dog's life, isn't it?"

"I'm going to extremes to escape it!"

"Yes," said Mark, sensing the dawn of a quarrel should he refer to his doubts of Vanya's story. "The rain's easing," he said to change the subject.

"Off season," the girl responded. "It won't last long." She looked up at him. "If you'll kiss me," she offered almost shyly, "I'll run along to bed."

"You read my mind, Vanya!" He drew her to him, tilted her face to his—and suddenly they were again crushed to each other in a sudden unexpected burst of passion. Vanya was the one who finally struggled free.

"Mark," she murmured, "this is dangerous. I'm frightened for you, I mean. You're changing, softening under the spell of this accursed place."

"Why?" he exclaimed. "Because"

"Why?" he exclaimed. "Because"

G. O. P. Presidential Aspirants

Herbert Hoover and Gov. Harold H. Hoffman (right), of New Jersey, two of the high ranking Presidential hopes of the Republicans for 1936, are seen meeting for the first time at the National Republican Club, in New York. Hoffman was elected in Jersey last November in face of Democratic landslide. Will 1936 bring a parallel for 1912, when ex-President Roosevelt, running against President Taft split the vote and enabled a governor of New Jersey, Wilson, to win?

"SPIRIT OF '36" FETES PLANNED

Ohio Republican Women To Honor Birth of Washington

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16—A statewide program honoring the anniversary of the birth of George Washington sponsored exclusively by women will be held the latter part of this month throughout Ohio. The celebrations are under the direction of women of the Republican Party, and are termed "Spirit of '36" parties in that they commemorate the service of the first president of the country, while evidencing women's present faith in the Republican party.

Chairmen Are Named

Women in charge of the parties over the state are organizing groups for community programs. Today, Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown, Republican National Committee-woman, issued a partial list of women who are to direct activities in their respective communities. Others to assist these Republican women will be announced in a few days and leaders for other committees will be appointed. The following women have been announced so far:—Miss Margaret Baker, Springfield, Miss Mary Wilgus, Xenia, Mrs. Mary Blaine, Marysville, Mrs. Edna Murphy, Toledo, Mrs. C. M. Reese, Wellston, Mrs. Mary E. Bartlett, Nelsonville, Mrs. Elizabeth Webb, Ironton, Mrs. H. H. WHY Didn't the Snow Melt on SMITH'S House?

Here's a startling clue. Jones uses 25% more fuel than Smith, yet his house is cold and draughty. (The heat has gone out through the roof.) And in summer, Smith's house is 6 to 12 degrees cooler than Jones'.

The answer is simple: Johns-Manville Rock Wool Home Insulation, the scientific home insulating material—installed between the attic floor beams.

Are you one of the lucky ones with an open attic? If so, let us tell you about J.M. Home Insulation! No obligation!

Rural Groups Take Part

Women of the rural communities as well as those of the larger Ohio municipalities will play an important part in the "Spirit of '36" parties. Those in charge of the programs in the rural districts have announced a number of unique programs. The women of one section are arranging a day for the sale of farm-made food products in a centralized meeting place.

The Washington anniversary programs will start on February 22, but some are scheduled a week in advance of that date and some will occur several days later.

Mrs. Mary E. Bartlett, State Central Committeewoman and County Chairwoman, receives the credit for arranging the first party which was held in Nelsonville, Ohio, on February 7th, and was a fine success with 150 women participating.

Indications are that card parties, some in large meeting places and others in a number of homes in each community will predominate, although there are a number of teas, and dinners being arranged, as well as theater parties and similar programs for the purpose of calling the women together. The women plan to use the proceeds from the various programs as a contribution to the funds for promoting the interests of the Republican party in the state. Reflecting the attitude of the Ohio women towards party of the future, the programs have been called "Spirit of '36" parties.

Hot Time in Hot Springs

Hot Springs

Gambling flourishes.

Racing adds to city revenue.

Officials of Hot Springs, Ark., have increased municipal revenue and the number of visitors to the famous resort by taking a liberal attitude toward gambling and sale of liquor although both are banned by state law. Past attempts to "clean up the city" proved such a policy costly and futile. Mayor Leo McLaughlin instituted a system whereby liquor and gambling establishments regularly pay systematic fines. In return for their contributions, they are free from arrest or shake-down. Tourist trade has since increased and city finances improved. The progressive McLaughlin now plans to capitalize on Arkansas' liberal divorce laws and make a bid for the business of Reno, Nev.

How much would you pay for a dollar bill?

THIS IS A TRUE STORY: It started with a half-serious wager, and it teaches a lesson.

Two business men were visiting a famous resort. One offered to bet the other that he couldn't sell real dollar bills for 50c apiece. The other accepted the challenge and went to work.

"How do you do," he said to a passing stranger. "Will you give me 50c for this dollar bill?" The stranger paid no attention.

The salesman tried again, and again. But nobody bought—and finally he had to admit that he'd lost his bet.

All of which suggests that people like to know who the seller is before they buy. You can trust the merchants who advertise their products in this newspaper.

The advertisements offer useful, dependable information about things you need and want. Read and heed the advertisements carefully and you will reap savings and satisfaction.

100 Attend M.E. Society Benefit Fete

Mary Carr Curtis society of the Methodist church gave a benefit party last night with an interesting program for entertainment. The party was well attended, with 100 people present.

The program opened with several vocal selections by Mrs. Henry Shoen, accompanied by Ruth Perry. Miss Marie Callahan played a number of xylophone arrangements, accompanied by Mrs. Howell. Four members of the Community Club Players, under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Matthews, presented a one-act play, "The Secret." The cast of the play included Fred Hultsen, Albert Hanna and Misses Helen Shelton and Lois Greenstein. John Hundermark Jr. played several violin selections, followed by the Hundermark ensemble accompanied by Mrs. Hundermark at the piano. The closing number of the entertainment featured vocal offerings by Mrs. Shoen.

The members of the class served lunch to the guests at tables prettily appointed with Valentine decorations. Bowls of red flowers centered each table, with circles of hearts surrounding them. During the lunch Miss Marie Callahan entertained with xylophone selections.

Miss Bernice Smith will entertain the girls of the class Feb. 19 at her home on Washington st. All members are asked to be present at that time.

Ruling On Liquor Signs Is Announced

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16.—Liquor permit holders need not remove signs placed on their premises by brewer until the legislature has taken action on the provision of the state liquor law which prohibits such signs, Milton S. Cox, director of the beer division of the department of liquor control, said today.

He advised permit holders, however, not to permit any new signs to be erected.

The law provides that "it shall be unlawful for any manufacturer or wholesale distributor to aid or assist the holder of any permit for sale at retail by gift or loan of any money or property of any description or other valuable thing, and it shall be unlawful for the holder of such permit to accept the same."

Under the administration of former Liquor Director J. A. Hughes, William Lewis, former beer chief, ordered all such signs removed by Feb. 19. The order was countermanded, however, when Liquor Director Joseph H. Scobell took office. Cox said he would carry on the countermanded regulation, whereby permit holders may keep up present signs until the legislature has taken action.

7 Hurt In Crash

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. (1 Peter 2:11-17.) Lewis Hirst, superintendent.

Christians should make the best type of citizens. The advice given in the Holy Scriptures is very conducive to loyalty to government and rulers. Faith in God and knowledge of the teachings of Jesus Christ should make for the high type of character that must go before good citizenship. Obedience to civil authority is a Christ-given command. Regard for the rights of other fellow citizens is one of the doctrines of the Christian faith. Disregard for law and authority is very prevalent in our land. The passing of more civil laws will not help. The increase of knowledge and loyalty to God is the best remedy for a lawless land.

Morning worship at 11. Sermon: "A Healing Word."

The power and healing touch of Jesus, the Savior, are much in evidence in Holy Writ. Jesus was the Great Physician. This phase of His work presents the sympathy and mercy of the Savior. He was ever willing and ready to bring the abundant life to the needy of that day. He was not able to come in contact with every infirm and afflicted person. Yet He was able to bring them healing and health even though the sick were distant from Him. He spoke a word and the sick were restored to health. Such was the sure evidence of Christ's divinity. Such was the sign of His kindness and mercy to all mankind. Christian believers have been inspired to an abiding faith in such a merciful and mighty Savior.

Asks Immunity

Clinton L. Bardo

Called as witness by Senate munitions investigating committee, Clinton L. Bardo, former president of the New York Shipbuilding Company, refused to waive immunity for any "self-incriminating" evidence given.

My! The Nerve of Some People!

King Zog of Albania, inset, "has a nerve" in making a plea for a young American bride who has an income of $1,000,000 a year, in the opinion of Natalie Hays Hammond, above, talented daughter of John Hays Hammond. "When I marry it will be an American for me," Miss Hammond said. "All he offers in exchange is a throne."

Alliance Swamped As Quaker Passers Go On Romp, 36-16

so hard his shoes must have looked like spats when he toddled off that floor to the locker room. He led the scoring, five field goals and three fouls, and no man, leastwise a little shaver like Jackie, ever dared to go after that ball from the tipoff like he did last night.

Up into the air he went after that tip, and it seemed as though he just bounced around in there, caroming off one big body after another. But he proved himself a game little guy, matties, if anybody ever did.

A capacity crowd turned out to see what everyone expected to be a close, hard-fought battle and which turned into a rout. However, for three quarters the Quakers, while quite apparently masters of the situation, demonstrated such a superior type of play that the throng had its money's worth. The game sort of went to the tip in the windup canto, with substitutions and one thing and another. The Alliance lads seemed just to be in there, five men on the floor going through the motions in a perfunctory sort of way, while a batch of second stringers wearing the Quaker colors were having a swell time passing the ball around and banging away at the hoops.

Zelle Starts It

We'll, to start the game off in the opening quarter Zelle drew first blood, bagging one of a pair of foul chances.

Ol' "Dead Eye" McCloskey snaked in from the corner, was nudged in the ribs while doing so, and drew a pass to the foul line. He made it count. Stark, Alliance center, was pushed and missed his foul. That, apparently, was one of the things the visitors were going to do best—miss.

McCloskey came out of a jam under the Alliance basket, dribbled down the center, stopped as the crowd sped by and potted two more points. Mullins and Barany missed fouls. The action after the first few minutes, was speeding up, close guarding was the order, and personal contacts were plentiful. Zelle and Seufels were caught in a clinch in the corner and Zelle made his end of the resultant double foul on a pass from McCloskey. Mullins scored from the side and was fouled. He made it as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Reed substituted for Greenawalt for Alliance. Mullins was jammed under the basket by Reed but missed. The Quakers opened up a terrific bombardment on the basket, and the fight became hot. Palmer fouled Stark under the basket and he made both. McCloskey was bumped by Stark under the basket and he made it count from the free mark. Jackie Mullins came bobbling down out of a mess of arms, hips and legs after the center tip, and dribbled through the throng for two points. Jackie was getting warmed up. He was in almost every play, all over the floor. Barany ran Mullins into the benches and it cost Alliance another point. Cunin took Barany's place. Hendershot went in for Rasketter and potted in a basket, the first two-pointer for Alliance. McCloskey was fouled and made it. Pukalski took Beck's place at guard for Salem. Beck was playing a great game. Cunin was fouled as the half ended and made it, the count standing 15 to 6.

The action was fast. How those kids kept going is hard to tell. Salem's superior passwork time and again drew applause from the stands. The Aviators were running in circles generally until a Quaker shot bounced off the backboards.

Third Period

Center Palmer popped up out of scrimmage under the basket and reached one in, stick shot, about Mullins scored a minute later from the corner. McCloskey found an opening, took the pass and dribbled in to the basket. The Aviators thought it was still Thanksgiving and two guards and a couple of halfbacks took Ol' Dead Eye out pretty neatly as the Aviators scattered the interference. McCloskey was dispatched to the benches as the whistle sounded, but he made one out of two shots from the free line. He was fouled again and made it. Zelle potted one on a pass from Mullins and the count was 23 to 6.

McCloskey zipped a smart pass to Mullins under the basket and Jackie scored. Here was an example of Ol' Dead Eye's calm judgment in a moment of stress. McCloskey had a perfect opening for a shot, about 15 feet out, and the crowd, in the second or two it took, yelled to shoot, but McCloskey saw Mullins edging in and gave him the pass, yielding his own chance. Just good basketball, that's all, but a lot of players forget to play it at times like that.

McCloskey, a moment later, missed from the side. Zelle caught it, rebounded and sank it. Pukalski and Cope went in. Reed scored on Pukalski's foul and Mullins skidded one in from the side. Someone sank an errant elbow in Beck's ribs and the latter made it count (the point, not the elbow). Lutsch went in for Palmer. Rasketter scored on a foul as the period ended.

Salem's customary third quarter rally was completed.

Fourth Period

The last quarter was pretty much of a nightmare. Coach Herb Brown had in most of his second stringers

SEBRING WINNER AT COLUMBIANA

Latter School Prepares For Class B Tourney Feb. 22 and 23

COLUMBIANA, Feb. 16.—The championship of the Tri-County association was at stake last evening when Sebring High school won over the locals in a fast paced game that followed a 27-23 score. The Columbiana reserves beat the Sebring reserves 15-11.

Both Columbiana and Sebring had won five games prior to last evening. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the game, including over 200 rooters from Sebring.

Friday and Saturday, Feb. 22 and 23, the county Class B tournament will be held at Columbiana High school. Drawings have been made for the first round.

Columbiana vs Fairfield, New Waterford vs Salsville. The finals will be played Saturday night and the winner will go to McDonald the following week to compete in the district finals.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—The finest array of young thoroughbreds ever to grace a western track will be called to the post today for the Santa Anita Derby and its $20,000 added money.

While the overnight entry list of 21 was expected to be pared down before post time to approximately a dozen, the result of the mile and sixteenth race probably will have an important bearing on the Kentucky Derby two months hence.

Non-nations for the annual Churchill Downs classics were expected to include a goodly share of today's starters.

The Catawba stable entry of Sound Advice and Polar Flight was an odds on favorite on the Morning Line, but a wide-open race was in prospect.

THE SPEEDY SWEDE

Erik

SWEDEN'S 800 AND 1500 METER KING, WHO WAS EUROPE'S FASTEST AT THOSE DISTANCES IN 1934--

HE BEAT BECCALI LAST YEAR--

NY WAS A FLOP ON HIS FIRST VISIT HERE--HE WASN'T USED TO THE INDOOR BOARDS--

HOW HUMILIATING

--HERE FOR ANOTHER INDOOR CAMPAIGN

Anxious to redeem himself for his miserable showing on the indoor boards two years ago, Erik Ny, Sweden's middle distance ace, is back in this country once again and will run in the big indoor meets during the next four weeks.

Ny (pronounced Khee, with the K silent as in Yensen) is the 800 and 1500-meter champion of Sweden, which may not mean much, but what is more important, he was Europe's fastest runner at those distances last year. Since that statement takes in such super stars as Jack Lovelock of England and Luiki Beccali of Italy, it would perhaps be a good idea to look at the record.

In his only meeting with Beccali, who holds the Olympic 1500-meter title, Ny emerged victorious, running the classic distance in the near record time of 3:50.8. Lovelock failed to equal that mark in any of his 1500-meter starts in 1934.

However, the speedy Swede's time is two seconds slower than Bill Bonthron's world record.

Erik was forced to eat Bonthron's dust twice during the latter's European invasion last summer, but he hopes to turn the tables on the former Tiger ace if given the opportunity next month.

The Swedish ace also lost to the one and only Ben Eastman over the 800-meter route last July, but Eastman will not be one of his opponents in the present indoor campaign, since Big Ben is resting up this year for the 1936 Olympics and will not engage in much competition.

Ny expects to show up much better this time than he did on his first invasion—it's a cinch he couldn't be any worse. He explains that disastrous first visit by saying that it was the first time he had ever run on boards and he couldn't get the hang of it at first.

Maxie's Benefit Brings In $15,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Max Baer did everything but stick out his tongue or knock out Stanley Poreda of New Jersey as he paid off a debt to Mrs. Elsie Camilli in a four round boxing match here last night.

Net receipts of close to $15,000 went to Mrs. Camilli, widow of Frankie Campbell who died after a boxing champion donated his services, a lot of clowning and one heavy right hand drive that floored the unconditioned preed for a nine count in the final round.

In return he got the thanks of Mrs. Camilli and a bloody nose. The bloody nose was Poreda's one effective contribution.

The playboy champion obviously could have knocked out his opponent at any stage of the fight if he chose, but he preferred to play at being a groggy himself and demonstrating a little of everything he had in the way of swings and clowning.

Baer weighed 213 and Poreda 217 pounds.

After the main event Babe Marino, San Francisco middleweight, twice floored Andy Callahan and

BIG TEN COURT BATTLES TAKE CRUCIAL TURN

Purdue and Indiana Will Fight It Out Again
For Lead

BY WILLIAM WEEKS,
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Big Ten basketball situation takes a "crucial" turn tonight when Purdue and Indiana, deadlocked in the lead, attempt to square up with Illinois and Wisconsin, respectively, for their only defeats of the championship season.

Illinois outpointed Purdue, 37 to 36, at Champaign, but playing on the Lafayette, Ind., floor tonight, the Boilermakers appear to have the edge. Indiana's assignment is much tougher. The Hoosiers lost to Wisconsin, 39 to 23, at Bloomington, and must tackle the Badgers where they are at their best, at Madison tonight.

Should Illinois again conquer Purdue and Wisconsin repeat over Indiana, the Badgers would rocket into first place with six victories and two defeats. The best guess, however, appears to be Purdue to get even with Illinois, and Wisconsin to defeat the Hoosiers.

Purdue returns to conference warfare for the first time since it defeated Chicago at Chicago, February 4. The Boilermakers have not been loafing, however, for they went East to wallop Fordham and squeeze out a one-point decision over Temple. The battle will give Bob Kessler, Purdue's leading scorer, a chance to catch up with Bill Haaslow, the league pace-setter, who will be idle. On the basis of average scoring per game, Kessler appears to have the best chance of overheating the slender Maroon sharp-shooter.

While the important battles are going on, Iowa, which fell apart after winning its first four conference games, will entertain Michigan. Northwestern, another big disappointment, goes to Milwaukee to play Marquette. Notre Dame renews its rivalry with Pittsburgh at South Bend.

Barberton Wins From Struthers

BARBERTON, O., Feb. 16.—Barberton High came from behind to defeat Struthers, 36 to 20, and go into third place in the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten race at the Barberton gymnasium here last night.

Trailing 6 to 5 at the end of the first period, Barberton staged a second quarter rally behind the leadership of Zalar and Mitchell to lead, 13 to 9, at the half.

Rivals of Track To Flash Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Cunningham, Bonthron and Venke will be doing business at the same old stand tonight.

These three aces of America's middle distance runners will clash for the second time this indoor season in the Baxter mile, prime fixture of the New York A. C. games in Madison Square garden. Another capacity crowd, such as packed the garden to see Cunningham beat Vanke by sixty yards and Bonthron by twenty-five in the Wanamaker mile of the Millrose games, it assured.

Kansas Glenn, world's record holder for the mile, indoors and out, rules a decided favorite on the basis of his 4:11 clocking in the Wanamaker mile but the track-wise customers expect a much closer finish this time.

Wrestling Results

CINCINNATI — Bull Curry, 174, Hartford, Conn., defeated Frankie Hart, 175, Holland, 22-00. (Hart disqualified).

LEGAL

LEGAL NOTICE
S. H. Squire, State Superintendent of Banks in charge of the liquidation of The Citizens Savings Bank of Salem, Ohio, plaintiff vs. Louise Edelen, et al. defendants. Case No. 25451.

Verna Hutchinson and A. M. Hutchinson, whose last known address was 1906 West Douglas Avenue, Precinct Illinois, will take notice that on the 11th day of February, 1935, the undersigned S. H. Squire, State Superintendent of Banks in charge of the liquidation of The Citizens Savings Bank of Salem, Ohio, filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Columbiana County, Ohio, in case No. 25451, alleging that the defendants above named have, or claim to have, an interest in the following described real estate, to-wit:

Situated in the City of Salem, County of Columbiana, and State of Ohio. Known as being Lot No. 5 in March Street's First addition of lots to the City of Salem, Ohio, as the same appears on the recorded plat of said addition. And being the same premises conveyed to Jonathan Balen by deed of Effie L. Hutson and Lester Hutson, her husband, dated October 20th, 1934, recorded in Volume 284, Page 258, Columbiana County Deed Records.

Further known as Door No. 212 West Seventh St., Salem, Ohio. The petition further alleges that by reason of the default of the defendant, obligor, in the payment of a promissory note according to the terms of the conditions of a concurrent order of the court, to secure the payment of said note and conveying the premises above described, have been broken and the same has become absolute.

The prayer of the petition is for the foreclosure of plaintiff's mortgage for the marshalling of liens and the sale of said premises and the proceeds applied to the payment of said liens in the proper order of their priority; that the defendants named be required to answer and set forth their respective defenses in said premises or be forever barred from asserting the same and for such other and further relief as may be just and equitable.

The defendants above named are required to answer on or before the 12th day of April, A. D. 1935. S. H. SQUIRE, State Superintendent of Banks in charge of the liquidation of The Citizens Savings Bank, Salem, Ohio. By R. W. CAMPBELL, Special Counsel. (Published in Salem (O.) News Feb. 16, 22, March 2, 9, 16, 23, 1935.)

most important measure which will come before congress at this session.

Calls for "Prevailing Wage" — Wagner took a stand for "prevailing wages" in the pending $4,880,000 work and relief bill as against the Roosevelt administration's plan for "security wages" of about $50 a month.

"Labor has spent years establishing living wage scales," he said. "It would be disastrous to tear these wage scales down by paying a subsistence wage of only $50 a month to workers employed by the government."

May Compromise

PIQUA, O., Feb. 16.—A compromise leading to settlement of the 45-day-old strike tying up the Val Decker Packing Co. plant here is expected following a 124-57 vote of employees to have the local union of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America represent all employees in collective bargaining. The union has demanded a closed shop, while the company has held that non-union employees should be allowed to return to work even if the plant is unionized.

Back In the Fold

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 16.—The state welfare department's "problem boy" was back in the fold today because he made the mistake of attempting to thumb a ride in a community that forbids hitch hiking.

John Woods, the 19-year-old youth who escaped from the boy's industrial school at Lancaster, where he was an honor inmate, awaited the arrival of school officers. He said he was going to Martins Ferry, where he once lived, to get a job in the steel mills. He was only five miles from his goal when police noticed him on the road and took him into custody.

Depression's Over — We Don't Know It

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The opinion that "we are out of the depression and don't know it," was expressed to President Roosevelt today by James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, on his return from the west coast.
"The west looked good," Moffett said. "People seemed to be working and there is more work in sight when spring construction opens. Hotels and railroads are filled. In the next 60 days a large degree of unemployment should be absorbed."

Moffett said 4,450 communities were organized and working on the housing program and 15 states have passed legislation suggested by the administration to permit greater use of the federal housing program.

"Bengal Lancer" Begins Week of Fine Films Scheduled at State Theater

THE State has billed an unusually good array of films for the coming week, beginning with the very popular new production, "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," scheduled for Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

It is believed to be one of the most costly films that Hollywood has ever attempted and it has taken four years to complete. Featuring a splendid cast including Gary Cooper (said to give the performance of his career), Franchot Tone, Sir Guy Standing, Kathleen Burke, C. Aubrey Smith and Monte Blue, it is a stirring, colorful and action-packed story of the exploits and adventures of England's Colonial soldiers in India.

The author, Francis Yeats Brown, was himself an officer of the Lancers while Achmed Abdullah, film adapter of the story, and four British officers served as technical advisors during the filming. The story is that of extraordinary bravery, discipline and skill that has enabled a mere handful of English officers to hold away over the teaming millions of India. Cooper is captain of the 41st Bengal Lancers, commanded by Sir Guy Standing when Sir Guy's son played by Richard Cromwell, arrives as a raw recruit. Cooper and Tone, the latter also an officer of the regiment, take over the training of the lad, but on a visit to an adjoining province, the boy becomes involved with a beautiful girl and is kidnapped by Khan, hostile leader. Khan hopes that the father of the boy will pursue the band and thus lead the Lancers to disaster.

Over 4,000 extras take part in the production and from advance reports it is well worth the lengthy time it took to produce it. The cast is said to be unusually brilliant and scenes of conflict in India splendidly done.

Two Good Features
Following "Bengal Lancer" the State shows a double bill for Wednesday and Thursday that should prove most interesting. The first feature is "The President Van-

Calls Relief Bill Biggest Blank Check On Record to Date

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Opening a new Republican attack on the administration $4,880,000 relief bill, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan told the senate today it was "a blank check for the biggest sum of money ever passed in a single transaction" and was calculated to "retard recovery, if we guess correctly what the administration contemplates."

He termed the measure the "most amazing legislative proposal in the history of this or any other democracy," and then sarcastically suggested the whole bill could be simplified by substituting two simple sections.

"1—Congress hereby appropriates $4,880,000.00 to the president to use as he pleases.
"2—Anybody who doesn't like it is fined $1,000."

Vandenberg spoke after Chairman Glass (D-Va.) of the appropriations committee, in charge of the bill, explained the amendments made by the committee to the house text, but refrained from recommending passage in its present form.

"I favored most of these amendments," Glass said slightly above whispered tones. "I proposed a good many of them and differed with some."

"It will be noted the amount of money has not been changed in any respect."

Glass voted in committee for the amendment of Senator Adams (D-Colo.) to cut the appropriation by $2,000,000.00.
Previously, Republicans at a party conference agreed to fight for limiting the bill to one year as against two from next June.

Hunt Jail Breakers
WEST UNION, O., Feb. 16.—Adams county authorities today sought three men who late last night picked a lock and dug through a brick wall, to escape from the county jail here.

They were listed by Sheriff George Baldrige, as J. C. Payne, Louisville, Ky., accused of being one of seven men who allegedly threw 2,500 cartons of cigarettes from a freight train at Seaman, Adams county; Roscoe Glynn, of Blue Creek, Adams county, and an unidentified prisoner.

The new lock, Baldrige said, was installed only three days before.
